CHAIR'S MESSAGE

Maria J. K. Everett

Ah, springtime! A time when we leave the winter doldrums behind and reconnect with family and friends in warm outside environs.

Do you recall a childhood ode to spring? "Spring has sprung, the grass is riz. I wonder where the birdie is!" Spring is also a time for new growth. Virginians were teased with what appeared to be the early arrival of spring several times during the winter. Crocuses, daffodils and, yes, even dandelions pushed through the soil, much to everyone's surprise.

Virginia ABC is experiencing new growth too. I'm pleased to greet you as the authority's new Board Chair. One of my first official duties involved a shovel and some dirt when I joined Virginia's Governor and other officials to break ground at the site of ABC's future headquarters and warehouse. This new facility in Hanover County, just to the east of Richmond, will take shape over the next 18 months.

I also have the pleasure of authoring this quarterly column for ABC's flagship publication. In this spring issue of Spirited Virginia you can read about lower-proof, lower calorie drink options that are as tasty as their traditional counterparts. We've introduced a variety of ready-to-drink canned cocktails that you can now find on ABC store shelves. These products are perfect for spontaneous gatherings—just pop the top and enjoy.

We offer a nod to the 50th anniversary of Earth Day (April 22) in our feature Earth-Friendly Distilleries. Read about several distillers that put our environment before their wallet.

With wedding season approaching, we offer parents of the bride and groom guidance on licenses that may be required and tips for buying bulk quantities of alcohol. You'll also find product recommendations if you opt to gift members of the wedding party with a thank you bottle. Check out our Gift Guide on page 30.

In this issue, our distilleries column takes a look at eight Richmond-area distilleries—just another reason to visit Virginia's capital city. And while you're traveling, continue your eastward trek to the Eastern Shore. Our Behind The Bar column introduces you to a bartender at The Oyster Farm Seafood Eatery in Cape Charles who makes an incredible Lemon Drop Martini.

If that doesn't taste like spring!

Cheers!

THINGS TO KNOW ABOUT VIRGINIA ABC

We're Open for You

Virginia ABC stores are open seven days a week, nearly every day of the year. Check with your local store for specific hours of operation. Stores close Easter Sunday, Thanksgiving Day and Christmas Day.

Visit Virginia ABC on the Web

Virginia ABC has expanded its social media presence with its Spirited Virginia brand. Check out and follow Spirited Virginia on Facebook, Twitter and Instagram. Virginia ABC's website—abc.virginia.gov—features cocktail recipes and entertaining ideas, and enables online ordering for both licensee and retail customers. The mobile-friendly website also offers directions to store locations, product selection and other information.

No Underage Sales

Virginia ABC is proud of its nearly perfect (99.12 percent) record of not selling to underage persons! In accordance with Virginia law, ABC employees are prohibited from selling to individuals younger than 21. To ensure alcohol is not sold to anyone underage, ABC store staff request identification from customers who look younger than 30.

How Do Products Appear on Store Shelves?

Vendors of distilled spirits and related products make presentations to Virginia ABC quarterly. ABC's decision to list a new product is based on criteria that include trends, category needs, sales history in other states, brand strength and recognition, packaging and appearance, special order demand, customer requests, price and promotional support. Additional consideration may be given to products that are made or distilled in the Commonwealth of Virginia or that have been awarded the distinction of "Virginia's Finest" by the Virginia Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services. After a product is approved, it is distributed to a selection of ABC stores for sale the following quarter.

Importing/Transporting Personal Alcohol

No more than one gallon of alcoholic beverages (or the metric equivalent) may be brought into Virginia from outside the commonwealth except for shipments to Virginia ABC, its licensees or new residents holding special permits. This includes military personnel returning from overseas, new Virginia residents moving into the state and Virginia citizens returning from vacation outside of the commonwealth. Violations may result in fines up to $500 and a year in jail. In addition, the vehicle used to transport the alcohol may be impounded and confiscated.

BILLY FELLIN

The Cost of a Bottle

Manufacturers and vendors establish the base cost of a distilled spirit product. Federal tax is added before Virginia ABC calculates the retail price (determined by size and proof) and the applicable state liquor excise tax of 20 percent. Standard sales tax is charged at the point of sale. The pricing process is different for wines, mixers and other products.

Supporting All Virginia Citizens

Virginia ABC is a leading revenue producer for the commonwealth and a source of future economic growth and innovation for the state. The profits that Virginia ABC contributes—collected from sales of distilled spirits at ABC stores, taxes collected on beer and wine sales, violation penalties and license fees—provide much needed funding for use in programs across all secretariats, thus benefiting citizens in all areas of the state whether they choose to drink or not. Since its establishment in 1934, Virginia ABC has contributed more than $9.9 billion to the commonwealth's general fund to support state services, including substance abuse, prevention and treatment.

Alcohol Prevention and Education Initiatives

Virginia ABC leads the commonwealth in alcohol prevention and public education initiatives by offering training and materials for use by licensed establishments, community groups and parents around the state. The authority further empowers Virginia citizens by developing partnerships, conducting speaking engagements and presenting programs that promote the responsible consumption of alcoholic beverages to those of age and zero tolerance to those underage. Programming highlights the dangers of alcohol misuse and hazardous behaviors. In addition, Virginia ABC provides thousands of dollars in grant funding to enhance community coalitions and initiatives.

Hochstadter Slow & Low Rock & Rye

Slow & Low comes in a sleek black 100 ml can and it packs a bit of a punch at 84 proof. Made from straight rye whiskey, naval orange, raw honey and, for a twist, rock candy. It's based on the original Rock and Rye from the 19th century, when saloon-keepers would pour a shot of rye and let the customer dip his own rock candy inside. It later became a pharmacy staple, prescribed for coughs, asthma, consumption, pneumonia and other maladies. Today, it's for pure enjoyment.

SPOTLIGHT ON SERVICE

Angela Jamerson, Store 281, Madison Heights

Angela Jamerson's ability to connect with people was the reason she joined Virginia ABC, at the suggestion of an ABC regional manager who said her personality made her perfect for the job. Angela enjoyed the work but soon earned her bachelor's degree from Lynchburg College and moved out of state—until the stars aligned, and she returned. Now she's a manager in the town where she grew up.

"The good thing is, everybody knows everybody. But the bad thing is, everybody knows everybody," she says of small-town living.

How do you stay current on new products?

I try to do my research. Spirited Virginia magazine is a great tool—you've got the recipes, the products; and then when you give the magazines out and people ask you questions, you really need to know.

How do you connect customers with products?

I'll ask customers who like a type of product if they might be interested in a similar product, so I can order it if they are.

I ask my regular customers, is there any product you've seen in another store that you wish we had? And I'll get it in—just a couple bottles to see if we can sell it—and if we sell it, then I'll get more; but if we don't, I'll still keep it for that one person.

Do you have other strategies to keep customers coming back?

Before Black Friday, I'll start calling customers, especially if it's people that want expensive things so I can make sure we have them. I tell people when we're going to have sales. Right before our Black Friday sale we had a gentleman come and he had two bottles of Crown Royal XR, which is about $120, and a Jack Daniels Select. I added it up in my head, and at 20 percent off [for Black Friday] he could've gotten that Select, which was $69.99, for free.

I told him, "If you wait two more days, you can get that Jack Daniels for free. But don't let me down—you better come back and spend that money!" And sure enough, he did. He came back twice before Christmas after that, and so I have made a customer for life.

I'm active in my store. I'm not just there to take your money. I'm going to find out what you like, what you don't like.

How do you teach these principles to your staff?

We play little games. Like I'll tell them, read about a product, then sell it to me. You have to know it to sell it, and once you feel confident, you can sell it. We'll play "name that customer"—what else would you try to sell him that's like what he enjoys?

What makes a quality Virginia ABC store?

Clean, well-stocked, friendly knowledgeable staff. It's the people—customers can tell whether you're sincere about their needs, that you like them and you know your product.

Richmond–Area Spirits

Exquisite Sips from the Capital Region.

Treat yourself to a Virginia-made liquor to enjoy the spirits of the commonwealth and support the local economy—whiskey, rum, vodka, brandy, moonshine and more. Virginia ABC carries more than 200 products made by distilleries from around the commonwealth.

Unless otherwise noted, select liquors from these Virginia distilleries are available at your favorite ABC store and at distillery tasting rooms by the bottle and in tasters and cocktails.

A Belle Isle Craft Spirits Richmond

Start with the story of moonshine's roots in Virginia, from early colonists, to Civil War soldiers on Richmond's Belle Isle, to Prohibition-era hooch. Fast forward to 21st-century Richmond, when two brothers-in-law decided to craft a premium moonshine, made with 100% organic corn. But founders Vince Riggi and Brian Marks didn't stop there. They added delightful flavor infusions, perfect for sipping or mixing: Honey Habanero, Ruby Red Grapefruit, Cold Brew Coffee and Blood Orange. Now Belle Isle offers ready-to-drink canned cocktails made with Belle Isle Moonshine and soda. (No distillery tasting room, but widely distributed in ABC stores and restaurants.)

B Cirrus Vodka Richmond

No, not all vodkas are made from potatoes. But Cirrus Vodka is, with American-grown Russet potatoes. The neutral spirit is created using the all-natural, non-GMO potatoes and charcoal-filtered water, through a triple distillation and eight-step filtration. The result is a premium vodka that's smooth, full-bodied, creamy and sweet—sippable on its own or complementing the perfect cocktail. At Cirrus, guests can tour the distillery and sample the wares. Choose from a flight of three sample-size handcrafted cocktails or simply sip the smooth Cirrus Vodka straight.

C James River Distillery Richmond

James River Distillery highlights the commonwealth and the city of Richmond in its products. Commonwealth Gin, dubbed a "New Western" style, uses Cascade and Amarillo hops to complement the juniper. The Øster Vit begins with a triple-distilled spirit and steeps it with Rappahannock River oyster shells, caraway, fennel and orange peel. Gwar Vodka and Jackson & James Rum were both crafted in partnership with other creative Virginia minds: the potato vodka in collaboration with a heavy metal band and rum with local bartenders. Guests can stop by the casual tasting room to enjoy cocktails and tastes of the spirits.

D Reservoir Distillery Richmond

Reservoir Distillery started with a simple concept: three 100% whiskies: 100% wheat, 100% corn bourbon and 100% rye. All provided individual appreciation while proclaiming the difference in the grain bills. But Reservoir didn't stop there. Instead, creative minds have added new spirits to the lineup, including limited releases: Hunter & Scott bourbon, a blend of corn, wheat and rye; spirits distilled from brewing mash (like Hardywood Gingerbread Stout) to wed the essence of beer and spirits; Maison de Cuivre, the Reservoir bourbon finished in French oak Merlot casks; and more. Visit the tasting room for tasters, cocktails and to learn the latest.

E Sleepy Fox Distillery Ashland

This cozy distillery tasting room makes for an enjoyable destination. Given the connection to Layne's Country Store, visitors can enjoy Southern sandwiches like the renowned country ham sandwich and distinctive whoopie pies while sampling the liquor in tasters or in cocktails. The Sleepy Fox distillery (in Lexington, Virginia) crafts 100%-corn moonshine—clear and in flavors like apple pie, peach, black cherry and red-hot cinnamon—as well as bourbon, maple whiskey and corn vodka. Sip, sample and take your favorite bottle home. Ask the store manager to special-order these products.

F Three Crosses Distilling Powhatan

Community plays a leading role in this family-run distillery in rural Powhatan, west of Richmond. This means sourcing ingredients locally—like the corn used in Route 13 Moonshine, Black Chevron Vodka and Three Crosses American Whiskey and the rye for American Whiskey. This means stocking tasting room shelves with local products like cheese and honey. And this means a friendly, cozy tasting room serving tasting flights or creative cocktails. Other Three Crosses products include solera-aged whiskey, rum, spiced rum and limited releases like apple spiced rum.

G Trial & Error Distillery Richmond

The distiller at Trial & Error believes in coloring outside the lines. Though small, the distillery puts out a variety of spirits: silver rum, golden rum and a variety of other rums, from spiced to citrus-flavored; American grappa, that Italian-style grape-based after-dinner drink; classic gin and Sloe berry gin; limoncello; maple whiskey; and creative limited release liquors. The modest tasting room offers samples of available spirits as well as cocktails. Better yet, it's located inside Bombolini Pasta shop, which offers amazing fresh pasta, entrées and sandwiches, served casually on site or to go.

H Virago Spirits Richmond

If the vintage 2,500-liter Charentais-style alembic still doesn't impress you—or if you're not moved by the hand-painted murals in the tasting room—just wait till you try the distillery's spirits and liqueurs. In the classy, cozy tasting room, you can taste the spirits or the creative cocktails. Be sure to sample the Four-Port Rum, a blend from four Caribbean ports: Barbados, Jamaica, Nicaragua and Panama; the same rum aged in casks of ruby port from Portugal; the Modern Gin with Oolong Tea; the Coffee Liqueur, with local coffee but without a cloying sweetness – or other new Virago spirits.

COMPANIES THAT CARE FOR THE ENVIRONMENT
TAKE STEPS TO PROVE THAT COMMITMENT.

Beautiful landscapes stretch across the U.S.A., from sea to shining sea, so it's only natural that American distilleries are choosing to minimize their impact on the environment. This includes Virginia distilleries, who embrace the commonwealth's abundance of beauty, from the shining Atlantic Ocean to the forested Blue Ridge Mountains. Throughout the Americas and overseas, distilleries large and small and the organizations that represent them have chosen to adopt sustainable practices.

"We only have one planet, and we'd like to leave it to our children in better shape than we found it," says Scott Harris, co-owner of CATOCTIN CREEK DISTILLING in Purcellville. The distillery has been named a Silver-level certified green business and declared a winner in the Good Food Awards, recognizing producers for sustainability, social responsibility and quality.

Leading global beverage companies have joined to advance environmental sustainability through the Beverage Industry Environmental Roundtable (BIER). Members emphasize water stewardship, energy efficiency, climate change, recycling and sustainable agriculture.

THE KENTUCKY DISTILLERS' ASSOCIATION partnered with BIER to address sustainability.

"Kentucky distilleries appreciate that the industry's signature heritage and dependence on natural resources call for a commitment to environmental responsibility," the association proclaims. "They also recognize that a healthy environment requires everyone to be involved. The Kentucky Distillers' Association therefore strives to engage suppliers, distillers and consumers around the sustainable stewardship of wood, water and grains—natural resources essential to the industry's growth."

THE SCOTCH WHISKY ASSOCIATION (SWA) launched its Industry Environmental Strategy in 2009, encouraging voluntary targets for use of water and non-fossil fuels, energy efficiency, packaging and sourcing of sustainably produced casks.

BACARDÍ LIMITED instituted its initiative, "Good Spirited: Building a Sustainable Future," for Bacardí Rum as well as other brands, including Grey Goose, Patron and Bombay Sapphire. So far, the company has cut greenhouse gas emissions by switching to renewable energy, cut water usage and diverted nearly all of its waste away from landfills. Other "Good Spirited" goals include reducing single-use plastic and eliminating single-use plastic straws.

practices and some of the distilleries that embrace them can inspire you to take action, too—and give you a shopping list of brands to put in your Virginia ABC cart. To advance sustainability, distilleries have chosen to:

Source responsibly

Sweden ranks among the top three most environmentally friendly countries, so it's no surprise that Absolut is earth-friendly, “from farm to sip.” Absolutely all ingredients are sourced locally, by farmers who share a commitment to quality and to sustainable farming. This reduces the distillery's carbon footprint, supports the community and maintains the liquor's consistent quality. Absolut's bottles are made locally, too, from recycled clear glass.

Harris of CATOCTIN CREEK points out another way to source responsibly: “We follow certified organic production, which ensures we are good stewards of the agricultural land we use,” he says.

In Brazil, NOVO FOGO ORGANIC CACHAÇA follows organic, eco-friendly sugarcane farming practices: no chemical herbicides or pesticides (which cause carbon emissions in their manufacture) and no burning of sugarcane fields.

Square One Organic Vodka and their partners use a wind farm a few miles from their distillery.

Other organic brands include SQUARE ONE ORGANIC SPIRITS and OCEAN ORGANIC VODKA, which grows its sugarcane on its Maui, Hawaii, property.

Sourcing barrels responsibly is important, too. White oak barrels for SUNTORY-brand bourbons and barrels for Novo Fogo cachaça are procured from sustainably focused suppliers.

Monitor energy consumption

“Distillation is an unavoidably energy-intensive process by its very nature,” explains Ian Glomski, founder of VITAE SPIRITS DISTILLERY in Charlottesville. To compensate for this, distilleries can target efficiency.

THE VIRGINIA DISTILLERY COMPANY in Nelson County maximizes energy usage by storing and reusing heat.

“Once we've created heat, this energy, how do we get the most out of it so that we're not burning more fuel?” asks Ian Thomas of Virginia Distillery. The distillery's answer is to reuse it. For example, it uses the heat harvested from pot ales to help bring the wash to the boiling point. Conversely, when hot mash is cooling enough to add yeast, this heat is transferred to be used elsewhere.

In Cognac, France, HENNESSY's focus on sustainability is as classic as its cognac. Since 2002, the distillery has drastically reduced energy consumption and greenhouse gas emissions and increased sustainable transportation.

Use green energy

CATOCTIN CREEK is the first East Coast distillery to be powered by solar electricity. The system offsets nearly 85% of the company's electrical usage.

And Catoctin isn't alone. Other distilleries have adopted the green mantra.

TITO'S VODKA built a two-megawatt solar array in Austin, Texas, covering more than 10 acres of land.

KETEL ONE VODKA uses a giant wind turbine, built to look like traditional Dutch windmills.

California's SQUARE ONE ORGANIC SPIRITS uses wind power.

EDRINGTON brands (including The Macallan, Highland Park and The Famous Grouse scotches, Brugal rums and Tequila Partida) sourced more than 50% of the energy for U.K. sites from renewable sources.

The new MACALLAN distillery uses steam from a nearby biomass plant, for 90% renewable energy.

The BACARDÍ distillery in Cataño, Puerto Rico, uses wind turbines.

BOMBAY SAPPHIRE built an efficient new distillery in 2010 in an historic mill. The distillery uses renewable waterpower, as did the mill, for part of its energy.

Use water responsibly

Distilling uses and dirties lots of water.

HEAVEN HILL's Louisville distillery reduced its water usage. "By placing two still condensers onto the cooling tower loop, the distillery now recycles water within its operations instead of sourcing it new – saving 330,000 gallons of water per day," Distillery Trail reported.

Set in rural Nelson County, far from municipal water services, THE VIRGINIA DISTILLERY COMPANY goes the extra mile to clean the distillery's wastewater. "Anything that's spilled or washed down the distillery floor drains is captured and sent to an underground holding tank," explains Thomas. Those "washing waters" are treated to balance the pH and processed to remove the solids. "What's left is a beautifully balanced clean water [which] gets deposited into an EPA-approved drain field" – and which will eventually be filtered through the ground to the aquifer.

GLENMORANGIE, situated beside the Dornich Firth waterway in Scotland, installed an anaerobic membrane bioreactor that treats distilling waste waters and creates energy in the form of methane-rich biogas, which is used in the distilling process. The system reduced the biological load discharge to sea by 95%.

The distillery is also helping restore oysters to the Dornoch Firth by placing oysters and re-creating reefs where the oysters can thrive—and clean the water, as oysters do. The oyster bed can also protect the shoreline beside the distillery from rising seas caused by global warming.

Minimize and manage waste

Liquor production begins with ingredients such as barley, rye, corn, wheat, sugarcane, grapes and agave—solids that become waste after distillation (dubbed spent grain, draff, stillage, vinaza, vinasses, etc.).

Distilleries large and small often provide this waste to farmers. THE VIRGINIA DISTILLERY COMPANY, for example, provides its spent grain to nearby Early Dawn Dairy.

CATOCTIN CREEK DISTILLING gives spent rye mash to local farms and recycles waste alcohol into fuel-grade ethanol for blending into gasoline. “This means that nothing in our production process ends up in landfill,” says Harris. “We’re really proud of that!”

Tequila production results in vast amounts of agave pulp and oily, harmful distillation waste. To combat the harm, the ALTOS TEQUILA distillery in Jalisco, as one example, composts its agave residues to fertilize sugarcane fields (also eliminating use of chemical fertilizers) and gives leftover compost to the local town.

There are still other creative distillation-waste angels.

ABSOLUT provides its stillage and about half of the mash water to nearly 300,000 pigs and cows, then the animals’ waste is used to fertilize local wheat.

THE MACALLAN sends its draff and pot ale to a nearby biomass plant.

BOMBAY SAPPHIRE burns its used gin botanicals in a biomass boiler that provides heat and hot water for other distillery buildings. In addition, the resulting ash is used as fertilizer at nearby farms.

HENNESSY treats distillation residue through methanization, depolluting the waste and producing biogas, which in turn generates green energy.

Aging liquors use an astounding number of wood barrels, too. Although bourbon must rest in new barrels, other spirits can be aged in used barrels. And when barrels are all used up, many distilleries find ways to reuse them, as in planters, furniture and rainwater barrels. BACARDÍ chops up retired rum barrels for mulch.

Maintain eco friendly business operations and visitor facilities

The new BULLEIT DISTILLING CO. visitor center in Lawrenceburg, Kentucky offers a cocktail bar with experienced bartenders and multisensory whiskey tastings—but it also highlights sustainable practices, including eliminating single-use plastics, maintaining an organic garden for cocktail ingredients, and powering visitor buses with propane.

And there are still other eco-friendly undertakings.

Visitors that bicycle to the COPPER & KINGS brandy distillery in Kentucky get a 50% discount on the tour.

DEEP EDDY recycles all cardboard and plastic that comes into the plant.

BACARDÍ sources cardboard made from sustainable forests, operates a pollinator garden, recycles and re-uses concrete from demolitions.

SQUARE ONE ORGANIC SPIRITS uses soy inks for labels and chlorine-free shipping containers.

OCEAN ORGANIC VODKA uses all-natural cleaning products.

Partner with others to spread an Earth-friendly message

Remember how essential water is to distilleries? MAKER’S MARK teamed up with United By Blue to remove 75,000 pounds of trash from oceans and waterways.

“Water is at the heart of everything we do at Maker’s Mark, because without it, there is no Maker’s Mark Bourbon,” says chief distillery officer Rob Samuels.

KETEL ONE VODKA hosts competitions challenging bartenders to create cocktails using locally grown ingredients and to reduce waste.

“My family has been distilling spirits since 1691 and from that moment we have always sought the perfect balance between a commitment to taste, a commitment to bartenders and a commitment to the world around us,” says Bob Nolet, 11th generation of the Ketel One family.

Since White Oak trees are essential to aging bourbon, Maker’s Mark partnered with the University of Kentucky and Independent Stave company to study the DNA of the White Oak to preserve and protect the species. Similarly, JACK DANIEL’S worked with the University of Tennessee to study White Oaks, and the Kentucky Distillers’ Association, Sazerac, Beam Suntory and others joined in the White Oak Initiative.

Farther south, PATRÓN worked with a Mexican agricultural research center to study Weber blue agave plants.

Protect important environments

NOVO FOGO ORGANIC CACHAÇA, nestled in the heart of Brazil’s Atlantic Forest, focuses on saving that coastal rainforest, which has lost 88% of its original 375 million acres to deforestation. Novo Fogo manages an “Un-endangered Forest” project to bring back threatened tree species of native trees.

Closer to home, several Kentucky distilleries have created nature sanctuaries on or around their properties, including WOODFORD RESERVE, JIM BEAM and MAKER’S MARK.

“This designated water sanctuary reflects our commitment to improving plant diversity, preventing erosion, increasing groundwater infiltration and providing wildlife habitat,” explains the Maker’s Mark website.

So next time you’re shopping for liquor, look for labels from distilleries that care. 🍷

So Your Daughter's Getting Married?

How to ensure a memorable wedding reception that's as smooth as her silk gown.

Written by Annie Tobey | Photography by Nikki Santerre Photography

Your little girl.

Maybe she wore a tutu to the grocery store—then switched to real pointe shoes, soccer cleats or a band uniform as she grew. Now she's trying on wedding gowns—and planning the rest of her life. And you're helping plan her reception, perhaps the most important party you'll ever throw for her. You want to create an event that the newlyweds will recall fondly for years to come.

Sure, all of the decisions are important—the venue, the entertainment, the food and the drink. But decisions involving alcohol not only add to the enjoyment—they can affect whether or not the reception is even legal.

And don't forget the big pre-wedding day, the rehearsal dinner, where the groom's parents will need to consider the logistics and legalities of that big occasion.

By knowing and following the laws and regulations of the Commonwealth of Virginia, you can host a party that will be memorable for all the right reasons.

DO WE NEED TO GET AN ABC LICENSE?

No, you will not need a license if:

- The reception is at someone's home, and you offer complimentary beer, wine, mixed beverages and food.
- The reception is to be held at a restaurant or other public venue that already has a license.
- You're working with a catering service that already has a license.

Yes, you will need a license if:

1. The event is held at a restaurant, clubhouse, event space, museum or other public venue that doesn't already have a license for serving alcohol.
2. You are purchasing wine or beer from a wholesaler or distributor.

WHAT KIND OF ABC LICENSE WOULD WE APPLY FOR?

You need a Banquet or “one-day” license for a wedding reception. This license is issued for private events where beer, wine or mixed beverages are provided at no charge.

CAN A CATERER PROCURE THE LICENSE FOR ME?

Many full-service caterers already have their own licenses in order to purchase and serve alcohol, including beer, wine and spirits, while caterers that provide only food don’t have licenses, explains Chris Ilias, director of operations at the Richmond-based Groovin’ Gourmet catering service. “Either we [the caterer] bring the license and we provide the alcohol, or the client procures a banquet license and they bring their own alcohol.”

HOW DO I GET A LICENSE?

You can apply online at abc.virginia.gov if you submit your application at least 12 days before the event date. Apply in person at your local Virginia ABC regional office within 10 days of the event (or apply by mail, but beware postal delays).

To find your regional office: go to the Virginia ABC website, click Enforcement on the top navigation bar, then click the link in the Regional Offices sidebar.

IF SOMEONE ELSE PROVIDES THE LICENSE, CAN WE OR OUR GUESTS STILL BRING OUR OWN ALCOHOL?

Perhaps you have a special bottle of Champagne that you’d love to pop open to toast the happy couple or a favorite beer or liquor that you’d like to share. If you’ve applied for the banquet license, then you and your guests can bring alcohol (as long as it follows other legal requirements).

If you’re using a caterers’ license, however, neither you nor your guests can legally bring alcohol—unless the reception is held in a private venue, like a home.

HOW DO I DECIDE WHAT DRINKS TO SERVE?

“Put some thought into what your guests might enjoy most and what might be meaningful,” advises Ilias. “If you know your crowd, you might know what they really like.” Otherwise, he adds, follow the Groovin’ Gourmet strategy: have “a little something for everyone. Usually at these events, as important as food and beverage are, people are there to have fun and have an experience.”

single serving up to your entire guest list and beyond. You can browse the recipes in alphabetical order. You can browse by category (Classic, Frozen, Spicy, Tiki, Modern Mixology, Virginia Mixed and more), or you can search by recipe name or ingredient—then filter choices by occasion (brunch cocktails, anyone?) and liquor (from absinthe to white rum). You can look for a seasonal punch recipe, such as the refreshing warm-weather Bourbon Punch or Rum Punch or the cold weather flavors in Spiced Pumpkin Punch or Woo Woo.

Or you can create a signature cocktail, one custom-made just for the couple du jour.

But remember the “KISS” principle and keep it simple, with a few carefully chosen cocktails and crowd-pleasing beers and wines.

HOW DO I KNOW HOW MUCH TO GET?

As Ilias points out, most people have “probably never thrown a party for 150 people before, so knowing how much alcohol to order is tricky – knowing how many mixers to bring, like club soda, soft drinks, vermouth ... If we do it, you don’t have to worry about it.”

But for you DIYers, cocktail recipes on the Virginia ABC website have easy-to-use serving multipliers. Simply use the + icon to increase the number of servings to see precisely how much you’ll need. What’s more, recipe ingredients link to the products in the store catalog, which takes you to the next step: ordering via the online ABC store for in-store pickup, boxed for you and ready to go.

WHAT’S THE BEST PLACE TO GET MY ALCOHOL?

Unless you can turn water into spirits, you’ll want to be sure you have enough alcohol on hand, and that you purchase it legally. Remember, consumers cannot legally import more than one gallon of alcohol into Virginia—that’s not nearly enough for most receptions!

- For spirits, go to your local ABC store. Or better yet, shop online and pick them up at your preferred ABC store.
- At abc.virginia.gov, choose your store using the top navigation bar “Stores” tab.
- Shop the online catalog. If the product is available in your store, choose the quantity, then click “Add to Cart.”

- Order minimum is $10, maximum is $2,500. If you need more, you can place additional orders.
- You can designate another person (21 or older) to pick up your order.
- Pay upon placing the order. Your order will be confirmed and pickup verified by email or text message.
- Orders that can be fulfilled from store inventory will be available within two days. Other products may need to be shipped from the warehouse to your store, as noted when you order. These are typically available in seven to 14 days, so be sure to plan ahead!
- Find more details at abc.virginia.gov/products/online-ordering.
- Since Virginia is a control state, consumers can only purchase liquor through the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Authority, either at an ABC store or at authorized distillery tasting rooms throughout the commonwealth. (Military service members and their dependents may purchase distilled spirits on base at their package stores.)
- For beer, cider, meads and wines, shop at authorized Virginia retail stores, breweries, cideries, meaderies and wineries.

WHAT DO I NEED TO KNOW ABOUT SERVING ALCOHOL?

Simplicity will be especially important if you're going the DIY route—select a few favorite beers and wines, plus spirits and basic mixers that are easy for guests or a volunteer bartender to throw together.

And remember:

- Always ensure responsible drinking.
- No one under the age of 18 may serve or dispense alcohol.
- No one who is intoxicated can receive more alcohol.

• Alcoholic beverages must stay within the designated area as outlined in the license.

• Never serve alcohol to a minor.

Your “little girl” will have enough to worry about on her big day, but she can enjoy the reception, knowing you’ve got it covered! 🍷

Stories Behind the Spirits

Every family has some great stories worth remembering and telling again . . . that time Uncle George convinced us all to . . . well, the people who make fine spirits brands also have tales worth celebrating. Here are a few.

By Andrew Madigan

A still life composition featuring a glass of bright yellow liquid, likely lemon juice, in a textured glass. The glass sits on a white, textured surface, possibly a tablecloth. Behind the glass is a vintage-style keyboard with white keys and dark lettering. Several long, thin green leaves, possibly from a citrus tree, are scattered across the white surface. The overall aesthetic is clean and modern, with a focus on natural elements and classic design.

You know the spirit, but do you know the story behind it? Here's the fascinating background for nine of your favorite products.

SPIRITED VIRGINIA | APRIL | MAY | JUNE 2020 33

UNCLE NEAREST 1856 PREMIUM WHISKEY

This award-winning 100-proof Tennessee Whiskey, filtered with maple charcoal and aged in seared oak casks, is named for Nathan Green. Known by many as “Uncle Nearest,” he was the man who by all accounts showed Jack Daniels how to make whiskey, in the 1850s. At Nearest Green distillery they call him the best whiskey maker the world never knew.

No one knows exactly how he got the nickname Nearest, but we do know that he was a former slave who came to Tennessee from Maryland which, in the early days of the Republic, was a hub for whiskey production. Green was the first African-American distiller in the U.S., and he was responsible for perfecting the Lincoln County Process, the method by which authentic Tennessee whiskey is produced.

PROPER NO. TWELVE IRISH WHISKEY

Proper No. Twelve was founded by Conor McGregor, boxer and champion mixed martial artist. The company pays homage to the beloved Dublin neighborhood where McGregor grew up: Crumlin, or District 12, is a leafy suburb on the south side of the city. Picturesque and crowded with residential neighborhoods, Crumlin lies alongside the River Camac, and it's been around since the Norman Conquest of 1170.

Proper No. Twelve is triple-distilled for a smooth and refined taste, and aged for at least three years in bourbon barrels. This is a great sipping whiskey with the same fighting spirit as McGregor himself.

GANDY DANCER

Iron Heart is a father-son winery located in the mountains of southwest Virginia. They make a vidal blanc wine—sweet and fruity, with notes of citrus, pear and honeysuckle—called Gandy Dancer. The name was chosen to honor the hard-working men who toiled on the railroad in 19th-century America.

A “gandy dancer” was a section hand, someone who laid and maintained the tracks—a tough and demanding job, to say the least. Many of these hands were Native Americans, or recent immigrants from China, Mexico, Italy and Ireland. They weren’t paid much and the work was unrelenting and dangerous, but they appreciated a steady job. Gandy Dancer is a tribute to these unsung heroes, who helped build our country.

OLD FORESTER 1910 OLD FINE WHISKY

In the fall of 1910, there was a fire at a Kentucky distillery. Some of the ricks and casks were destroyed, so they had to find a new place to store the spirits and new barrels to keep them in. The whiskey was put aside and more or less forgotten. When they discovered it a few months later, the whiskey tasted different because of the extra aging and re-barreling. They made a special bottle and label, calling the new product Old Fine Whisky.

The distiller revived this historic vintage in 2018 with Old Forester's 1910 Old Fine Whisky, which honors their unique history. They take aged whiskey and re-barrel it in heavily charred casks, where it matures for another seven to nine months. The result is a fine spirit that has as much flavor as the original, over 100 years ago.

WILD TURKEY 101 BOURBON

Wild Turkey can trace its roots back to 1869 when the Ripy Brothers opened a distillery on Wild Turkey Hill near Lawrenceburg, Kentucky, where the company is still based today. Clearly, they know a thing or two about tradition. The Ripys produced bourbon and sold it to various wholesalers who bottled it under their own brands.

Austin Nichols was one of these men. Wild Turkey was named in 1940 at a wild turkey hunt. One of Nichols' employees, Thomas McCarthy, brought sample bottles to share with his buddies. They liked it so much that, afterward, they would often ask: "Can we have some more of that wild turkey bourbon?" Today, a lot of people feel the same way.

BACARDI RUM

Bacardi was founded by Facundo Bacardi Masso, whose family emigrated from Spain to Cuba when he was a teenager. Rum, at that time, was often cheaply made and not very appetizing, so Masso began tinkering with the recipe and production techniques. He used charcoal to filter out impurities and oak barrels to mellow the flavor. The result was the world's first clear or "white" rum. He opened a small distillery with his brother-in-law and began mass-producing the product in 1862.

Bacardi's bat logo comes from the year they opened, when Masso found a number of fruit bats fluttering in the distillery rafters. He decided that this was a sign of good luck and made the black bat the symbol of his new company.

CROWN ROYAL WHISKY

Crown Royal was developed by Seagram's in 1939 to commemorate a visit from England's King George VI to Canada—the first reigning monarch to visit the young country. Seagram wanted to distill a spirit that would be suitable for royalty. The distillers tested over 600 combinations of whiskey before coming up with the winning formula, a proprietary blend of 50 whiskeys. The finished product was bottled in an ornate cut-glass decanter, which was then wrapped in a velvety purple bag with gold stitching, much like a king's robe. The train that carried the king and his entourage was loaded with 10 cases of Crown Royal.

History hasn't recorded how he liked the spirit, but since the 1960s, when Seagram began selling it internationally, Crown Royal has been the world's best-selling Canadian whiskey.

THREE CROSSES

Three Crosses, based in Powhatan, was founded by John and Michelle Davenport. They make several varieties of whiskey, rum and vodka. The name is derived from three sources. The shield logo comes from the Davenport family crest. The three crosses, which soldiers carried into battle during the Crusades, relates to John's time in the military as well as the couple's shared faith.

TRIAL & ERROR

In 2010 John and Lolita Kreckman opened a store in the Fan district of Richmond. They sold wine, sandwiches, pasta and craft beer. A few years later, they opened a distillery at the same location. Today, they produce a number of handcrafted drinks including rum, vodka, grappa, whiskey and limoncello. The name Trial & Error represents their innovative, experimental approach to the business, which also reflects the nature of the city they love, Richmond, Virginia. 🍷

The reasons to consider a lighter drink are as varied as the people making the decision, including things as simple as swimsuit fit as we head toward that season.

And what a perfect compromise to be a little vigilant while still enjoying a few drinks? Especially when it's often too hard to find the difference between the results of these tips and techniques and the "real thing."

By striking that balance, you get to enjoy the best of two pleasing worlds.

CHOOSE DELICIOUS LOWER-PROOF OPTIONS

To cater to contemporary consumer trends, bartenders have been fashioning lower-alcohol drinks, calling them session cocktails, shims, low-proofs and suppressors—or just listing them as another great cocktail choice. These drinks play to customers' concerns about health, about enjoying extended socializing without becoming intoxicated, about staying alert and about being safe and responsible.

Bartenders use multiple strategies in creating a tasty session cocktail, including:

- A focus on high-flavor, low-proof liquors (under 40 proof), including herbal aperitifs such as fortified wines and liqueurs.

(Bartenders may also use higher-proof alcohols but in a minor, supporting role.)

Leading roles can be played by . . . VERMOUTH, a fortified wine, infused with aromatic herbs and spices.

AMARO, an herbal liqueur made from infusing a base alcohol such as grape brandy, neutral spirits or wine with herbs, roots, flowers and spices. For example:

APEROL, infused with ingredients like oranges, herbs and roots.

CYNAR, an all-natural Italian amaro made from 13 carefully selected herbs.

HARD CIDER OR RED WINE.

Tips:

- Use a full-proof spirit as a rinse: swirl the spirit around in the glass, then pour off the excess, leaving behind aroma and flavor without the high alcohol content.

- Use full-flavor mixers, like shrubs, kombucha or quality sodas such as ginger beer.
- Avoid neutral spirits such as vodka or moonshine that add alcohol without contributing flavor.
- Create spritzes (aka spritzers) that use a sparkling beverage to add body and bubbles. A standard “spritz” is three parts bubbly, two parts bitter and one part soda water. Though the ingredients are practically endless, the granddaddy of them all is the Aperol Spritz.

CHOOSE TASTY LOWER-CALORIE OPTIONS

Alcohol adds calories but few nutrients, so it can easily contribute to unwanted weight gain. Merely 1½ ounces of the typical spirit (gin, rum, vodka, whiskey, tequila or brandy) packs 97 calories, while 1½ ounces of a sweet liqueur send about 165 calories to your waistline. Aside from the alcohol, cocktail ingredients pack in even more calories.

Though calorie-content varies by ingredients and proportions, standard cocktails start at over 100 calories and keep climbing. According to the National Institute of Health, there are:

And then there's the sugar! The American Heart Association recommends limiting added sugars to no more than half of daily discretionary calories. For most American women, that's 100 calories (25 grams) per day and 152 calories (38 grams) for men. Cocktails can push you right up against that limit, with about 22 grams of sugar for 8 ounces of orange juice or tonic water; 26 grams for 8 ounces of cola; and 14 grams per ounce of simple syrup.

So if you want to avoid sugar, control your weight and please the virtuous angel on your shoulder, changing your drinking preferences provides a useful starting point.

Drink Tips include:

1. Sip your liquor neat.
2. Choose cocktails that are lower in calories and sugar.
3. Choose lower-proof alcohol.
4. Add fresh ingredients that add flavor naturally—as well as provide health benefits—like crushed herbs, fresh ginger, and muddled fresh berries and cherries.
5. Avoid sugary premade mixers.
6. Use light juices and mixers, diet soda, diet tonic water, sugar-free simple syrup, etc.
7. Make small drinks in small glasses—and sip.
8. When you're drinking, alternate cocktails with a non- alcoholic drink such as sparkling water with lime (for a feel-better morning-after, too).
9. Or better yet, have no more than one drink a day.

MAKE IT EASY!

If this all seems so complicated that you'd just as soon give the angel the brush-off and let the devil have his way, take heart: Virginia ABC stores offer ready-to-drink cocktails and flavorful sipping liquors that are lower in alcohol and lower in calories!

Virginia ABC is pleased to introduce its product list which replaces the price list included in past issues. This new list includes the standard size (in most cases a 750ml bottle) of every product with its proof and price, without the redundancies of additional separate lines of information on proof and price for other sizes of the same product. In this new condensed format, you'll see any additional sizes of a product listed to the right of the primary product.

Prices listed in Spirited Virginia are accurate at press time. Throughout the three-month quarter however, many products go on sale. Our web site is always your best choice for product information on inventory, store availability and prices. For prices on monthly specials as well as prices for additional bottles sizes, visit www.abc.virginia.gov and search 'product list downloads'.

ABC Breaks Ground for New Headquarters and Warehouse

Governor Ralph Northam and Secretary of Public Safety and Homeland Security Brian Moran joined ABC Chief Executive Officer Travis Hill and more than 75 guests to recognize the commencement of construction for the authority's 315,000-square-foot warehouse and 95,000-square-foot headquarters in February 2020. Completion of the Hanover facility, which is dependent on many variables, is expected as early as summer 2021.

Erika Schadt, The Oyster Farm Seafood Eatery at Kings Creek, Cape Charles

Bartender Erika Schadt isn't from the Eastern Shore, but she's at home near the water. She was born in Emerald Isle, North Carolina, and she and her husband, Chris, who's in the Coast Guard, moved to Cape Charles in 2011.

"We've been here ever since," Schadt says. "I love the Shore, I love the Bay. I love the people here. I love how quiet and laid back it is. I've made such good friends here."

Schadt began working at The Oyster Farm Seafood Eatery at Kings Creek soon after arriving in the area. She and Chris now have two sons, and in 2017, she received her license in real estate, so she's working as bartender, Realtor, mom and wife.

How did you get involved with bartending?
I grew up in the restaurant business. I started bartending at my dad's restaurant. My best friend's dad owned a bar, so after I'd get off at my dad's restaurant, I would go over there.

What do you enjoy about working a bar?
I enjoy the people, just being around adults, because I'm around my children all the time—just getting to know new people. One of my favorite things is the regulars that come in—you build a relationship with them, and you really get to know them and their family.

Describe the bar program at The Oyster Farm.

We carry our local Cape Charles Distillery, their whole line of liquors, so we like to support local. We carry Chatham Vineyards on Church Creek wines as well. We do a lot of martinis—people love them. Otherwise, it depends on the day and the season. In the summer, vodka and rum and white wine are flying off the shelves; in the wintertime—in football season—it's beer and bourbon.

Have you created cocktails that include Cape Charles spirits?

We do the ESVA martini, which is the Woo Woo Vodka with an oyster in it. We also have a Moscow Mule with Woo Woo Vodka, and we do Manhattans with Cape Charles Rye Whiskey or their Straight Bourbon.

What is a customer favorite spirit or cocktail at the bar?

One that I personally make is a Lemon Drop Martini. I had a customer a couple of weeks ago tell me that I should trademark it; she says it's the best she's ever had. For the bar in general, especially in summertime, a lot of people order the ESVA martini, since it has an oyster in it. Another we do is the Pearl Martini. It's Absolut Citron, Hpnotiq and white cranberry juice. People really like it. It's a good cocktail and a pretty aqua-blue color.

What are your favorites?

Personally, I love the Lemon Drop Martini, and that's probably why I make it so specific, because it's one of my favorites and it's got to be done right. I normally drink red wine or vodka sodas. I mix it up though.

What's the cuisine at The Oyster Farm?

We focus on seafood, local seafood—oysters mainly—and we try to make cocktails or drinks that will taste good with oysters and pair well. But we have a mixture of things.

What's it like to be a Realtor and a local bartender?

It's great. That's the nice thing about living in such a small town—people know you so well, and they refer you to other people. So a lot of my business has come from friends and referrals from people that I've met in the town from working there. I've worked there for so long, people know me as the bartender from The Oyster Farm.
